Port St. George, May 6, 1938.

RE. 481.—

The attention of 'agricultural' debtors for whose benefit the Madras Agriculturists Relief Act, 1931, was enacted is drawn to the fact that they can set this law in motion by resort to Debt Conciliation Boards established under the Madras Debt Conciliation Act, 1936. The provisions of the Agriculturists Relief Act were fully explained in a Press Communication issued on the 30th March 1938. It does not appear, however, that the provisions of and the procedure under, the Debt Conciliation Act as applied to the conditions created by the provisions of the Agriculturists Relief Act are fully realised.

2. The salient features of the Debt Conciliation Act are—

- (1) The Act applies only to agriculturists whose debts exceed one hundred rupees;
- (2) It provides for the establishment of a Debt Conciliation Board for any district or even part of a district;
- (3) Creditors and debtors are brought together with a view to effect an amicable settlement of debts, application for such settlement being made either by the debtor himself or by any of his creditors. Then the debtor can get a settlement of all his debts as scaled down by the Agriculturists Relief Act and get all his creditors summoned to appear before the Board, even though the creditors may be lying low without proceeding to sue the debtor, being unwilling to have their debts examined with reference to the Agriculturists Relief Act;
- (4) The Debt Conciliation Board persuades parties to come to an amicable settlement; but there is no longer difficulty as regards reduction of amount due as the law itself has achieved it;
- (5) If a settlement is agreed to by the parties it is recorded by the board and registered and then it has the same effect as the decree of a civil court and is enforceable as such;
- (6) If there is no settlement, the application is dismissed, but the board may issue a certificate to the debtor that the offer made by him to any creditor was, in its opinion, fair. In such cases, the creditor will not get the costs of his suit when he files one in a civil court or any interest on the principal amount due to him, in excess of simple interest at 6 per cent per annum, after the date of such certificate.

3. The procedure followed in the settlement of debts by a Debt Conciliation Board is briefly as follows:—

- a. Debtor or any of his creditors may make an application for settlement of the debts giving the particulars mentioned in section 5 of the Act. On receipt of the application, the board fixes a date and place for hearing the application and the necessary notices are sent by registered post to the debtor and each of his creditors. If, after examining the debtor, the board considers it desirable to attempt to effect a settlement, a notice is issued calling upon all his creditors to submit statements with full particulars of the debts owed to them and to produce all documents including entries in books of account relied on by them. The debtor and each creditor are then required to explain their case regarding each debt and if there is a dispute as to the existence or the amount of the debt due to any creditor or the assets of any debtor, the board decides the matter after taking such evidence as may be adduced by all the parties concerned and such decision is binding on all parties in all proceedings before the board. The provisions of the Agriculturists Relief Act by which the amount due as under the ordinary law is statutorily scaled down will necessarily be taken into account by the Conciliation Board and the debtor will be entitled to all the advantages thereof. The board then prepares a complete schedule of the creditors and of the assets and liabilities of the debtor. If the creditors to whom more than fifty per cent of the total amount of the debtor's debts is owing come to an amicable settlement with the debtor, such settlement is reduced in writing in the form of an agreement which, if considered equitable by the board, is read out and explained to the parties concerned and then signed or otherwise authenticated by the board and the parties. The agreement is registered within 30 days by the Chairman of the board and it will then take effect, as if it were a decree of a civil court. If no amicable settlement is arrived at within 12 months from the date of application, the application is dismissed.

4. The Debt Conciliation Act was brought into force with effect from 1st January 1937. There are now six Debt Conciliation Boards working in the districts of Bellary, Coimbatore, Gundur, Nellore, Ramnad and South Arcot. The working of these boards so far has by no means been satisfactory. The creditor has been asking for his 'pound of flesh.' But with the passing of the Madras Agriculturists Relief Act, 1938, the position has changed; for under section 7 of that Act, debts payable by 'agriculturists' as defined in that Act, automatically stand sealed down in accordance with its provisions. This will in most cases be smaller than the amount mentioned in section 10 of the Debt Conciliation Act, 1936. The creditor cannot claim a pie more than what the Agriculturists Relief Act allows. There is no question now of persuading the creditor brought before a Debt Conciliation Board to agree to a voluntary reduction of his claim. The board has only to determine with reference to the provisions of the Agriculturists Relief Act, the amount due to each creditor. What is now required is that the debtor should move the board by making an application under the Act. On a single application by a debtor his entire liabilities to every one of his creditors will be examined. The board will bring together all the creditors and determine the amount due to each of them, thus saving the parties the difficulties and the expense involved in adjudications by civil courts. Further, an agreement will be drawn up under section 14 of the Debt Conciliation Act, which will be equitable in the circumstances of each case and accord as far as possible with the wishes and the convenience of the parties themselves. On the ratification of the agreement, the execution of decrees in certain cases is stayed—see section 18 C of the Debt Conciliation Act.

5. In view of these many advantages which the debtor stands to gain by moving a Debt Conciliation Board to scale down his debts under the Agriculturists Relief Act, debtors are advised to take advantage of these benefits wherever they are in existence. The Government have under consideration the question of selling up additional Debt Conciliation Boards for the purpose in other areas.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT. (General.)

PRESS COMMUNIQUE. Fort St. George, May 2, 1938.

No. 100—

In their press communiqué, dated 31st December 1937, dealing with hydro-electric schemes, the Government related to the experiments that were being made in certain places in the Ceded Districts for obtaining water by sinking deep borewells, and the public will no doubt be interested to know whether these experiments have led to any useful result. It was in January 1937 that the Government ordered an investigation into the possibility of sinking tube wells in the Ceded Districts for irrigation and drinking purposes and as a preliminary a geographical report was prepared with plans and contours from which were deduced the most favourable areas for boring. Further study of these selected areas with reference to availability of electric supply, access to roads and suitability for cultivation and irrigation led to the elimination of a certain number of plots, and as the ultimate idea was to feed a series of small holdings for garden crops, attention was concentrated on Government waste lands, i.e., lands available for assignment.

2. S. No. 537 of Ambavaram, a village eight miles from Cuddalore town, was selected for sinking the first experimental borewell, and boring was commenced on 31st June 1937 and stopped on 2nd October 1937, after reaching a depth of 261 feet. The first spring which must be classified as of surface variety was met with at 31 feet below ground level. This level was maintained for a fairly long period till a second spring was struck at 250 feet below ground level. The latter spring further raised the water level from 21 feet to 17 feet below ground level. In order to find the yield of this borewell an air compressor pump was installed and worked for eight hours continuously each day from 19th December 1937 to 27th December 1937, and again from 3rd January to 26th January 1938. The discharge measured was found to vary from 60 to 100 gallons per minute. The maximum fall in the water level consequent on the eight-hour continuous pumping, was about 93 feet but within two minutes of the cessation of pumping, the level rose by 13 feet. A sample of the soil and water was sent to the Government Agricultural Chemist for analysis and his report was as follows:—

"The soil contains very little soluble salts and as such can be considered good. The sample of water is good enough for irrigation purposes. Although the total salts content is not very high from the irrigation point of view, most of them are present, as magnesium and soda bicarbonate. In the long run this water might affect the soil when used."

Work on the second well which is located within four miles of Cuddapah town is still in progress. The soil of the area commanded by the first experimental borewell borders on black cotton, while that around the second well is red earth for a yard, below which loose boulders and shingle, are obtained. Judging from the cultivated lands in the vicinity the area seems to be suitable for raising crops such as ragi, turmeric, sugarcane, etc. Fruit trees like lemon, orange, &c., may also be grown.

3. The results of the investigation so far made are certainly encouraging. The well in Anjanpalem village has been completed and turned to 100 gallons per minute continuous supply and arrangements are being made to install an oil engine and pump set and put them into operation by 31st May, 1935. It is proposed later to connect this and future wells to the Cuddapah Electric Supply when the load has grown sufficiently heavy to justify the cost of the transmission line. For the present and for this isolated well however a secondhand oil engine set will be installed. The area commanded by the well is about 180 acres.

Secretary to Government.
